

Medical Clearance Certificate

CFR retreat weekends are all about fun and support, incorporating the wonderful sport of fly fishing. Fly fishing allows the participant to enjoy the peace and tranquility of the outdoors and to be in the moment, where all they have learnt over the weekend is finally put into practice on Sunday morning. Each participant has their own personal fishing guide for their time spent on the river. Applicants must be able to stand for periods of time and to balance in running water. The action of fly fishing involves whole body movement, some hip rotation and a full range of arm movement.

Casting for Recovery has inspired the generous and loyal support of donors large and small, and continues to believe in its mission of providing powerful tools for healing.

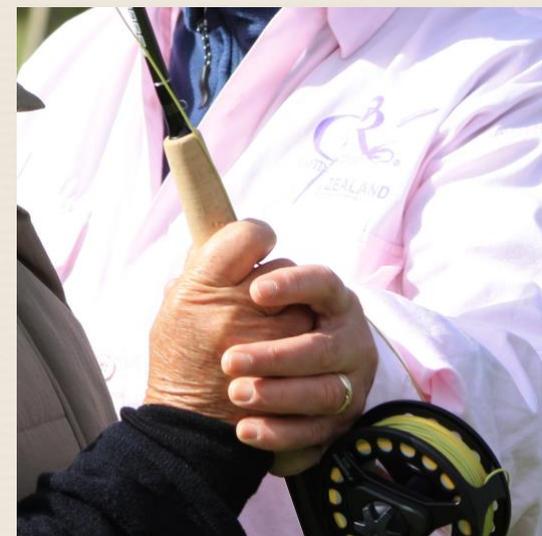

CFR Goals

- ❖ To give each participant a respite from familiar surroundings and routines in a natural setting where wellbeing can flourish
- ❖ To provide a welcoming environment, free of the constants of treatment, family responsibility and financial concerns, helping participants take charge of their own wellness
- ❖ To provide a weekend all about fun and support incorporating the wonderful sport of fly fishing
- ❖ To allow participants to enjoy the peace and tranquility of the outdoors and to be in the moment
- ❖ To provide the opportunity for participants to practise fly fishing skills out on the river
- ❖ To provide participants with powerful tools for healing at no expense
- ❖ Offer the opportunity to meet new friends, network, exchange information and have fun

2019 CFR RETREAT
26 - 28 APRIL
Owen River Lodge

Casting for Recovery
New Zealand, South Island

Casting for Recovery (CFR)

The retreat provides an opportunity for people whose lives have been affected by breast cancer, to gather in a beautiful, natural setting and learn the basics of the sport of catch and release fly fishing.

The 2019 retreat will host 10 people who can participate at their own pace, take time to care for themselves, engage in self exploration and acquire new, fun skills which are helpful tools when returning to the demands of day-to-day life.

Understanding the challenges and joys that others in similar or totally different circumstances are experiencing and visualising outcomes besides fear is what makes the CFR retreat experience so powerful.

Why fly fishing and breast cancer?

The dynamics of fly fishing provide a healing connection to the natural world, relieving everyday stresses and promoting a sense of calm. Fly fishing techniques provide gentle exercise for joints and soft tissue. Whether undergoing treatment or ten years beyond, participants find that they share a common bond, can help each other address issues that arise post-treatment and share an inspiration that often goes beyond what is available to them in their everyday lives.

What to Expect

Participants receive one on one instruction in the basics of fly casting, from fly fishing instructors and river helpers. Additionally, medical education and guidance is available, provided by trained facilitators who staff each retreat, including a therapist and health care professionals.

The retreat, including meals and accommodation is offered at no cost to the participant other than the expenses involved in travel to and from the Owen River Lodge.

Participants will be required to share a twin room.

Am I Eligible?

Participants are eligible at any age and stage of treatment and recovery from breast cancer. Medical clearance from your GP/Specialist is required acknowledging that you are medically fit to attend the CFR retreat.

Please see detachable application form which must be totally completed before submission.

Selection Process

Participants are selected at random from the pool of applications received from South Island residents before end of February 2019.

Applicants will be notified whether they have been successful or not. Those successful will be asked for additional medical information as well as dietary needs and details for sizing of fishing gear then will be supplied with all the information they will require prior to the retreat weekend.
